

Contents

Preface to the Second Edition	vii
Preface to the First Edition	ix
Acknowledgements	xi
List of Figures	xxiv
List of Tables	xxvii
1. The Nature of Industrial Marketing	1
What is Industrial (Business) Marketing? 1
Industrial vs Consumer Marketing 2
Differences Between Industrial and Consumer Marketing 2
Distribution Channel Characteristics 5
Industrial Demand 7
Summary 10
Questions for Discussion 10
2. Understanding Industrial Markets and Environment	11
Types of Industrial Customers 11
Commercial Enterprises 11
Government Customers 13
Institutions 13
Cooperative Societies 13
Classification of Industrial Products and Services 13
Materials and Parts 14
Capital Items 15
Supplies and Services 16

Marketing Implications For Different Customer and Product Types	16
Marketing Strategy for Capital Items, Supplies and Services	17
Industrial Customers' Purchasing Orientations	18
Buying Orientation	18
Procurement Orientation	19
Supply Chain Management Orientation	20
Applications of Purchasing Orientation	20
Purchasing Practices of Industrial Customers	21
Purchasing in Commercial Enterprises	21
Purchasing in Government Units	22
Institutional Purchasing	24
Purchasing in the Reseller's Market	24
Purchasing in Cooperative Societies	24
Environmental Analysis in Industrial Marketing	25
Types of Environment	25
Strategies for Managing Industrial Environment	31
Summary	33
Questions for Discussion	33

3. The Nature of Industrial Buying and Buying Behaviour 34

Purchasing Objectives	34
Purchasing Activities	36
Buyphases in the Industrial Buying-decision Process	36
Marketing Implications	41
Types of Purchases or Buying Situations	41
The Buygrid Framework	42
Buying Centre (or Decision Making Unit)	43
Buying Centre Roles	43
Identifying Key Members of Buying Centre (or Decision Making Unit) in Buying Organisation	44
Models of Organisational Buying Behaviour	45
The Webster and Wind Model of Organisational Buying Behaviour	47

The Sheth Model of Industrial Buyer Behaviour	47
Contemporary Purchasing Activities	49
Summary	50
Questions for Discussion	51

4. Buyer-Seller Relationship 52

Buyer and Sales Representative Interaction	52
Buyer's Perception of Sales Representative	53
The Role Played by Industrial Buyer	53
Is the Industrial Buyer Rational or Irrational?	54
The Role Played by Industrial Sales Representative	54
Buyer-Seller Relationship	55
Types of Relationships	56
Transactional Exchanges or Relationships	56
Value-added Exchanges	57
Collaborative/Partnering Exchanges (or Relationships)	57
Relationships and Marketing Strategies	58
Customer Relationship Management (CRM)	59
Sustaining Customer Relationship	60
Relationship Marketing	61
Methods Used to Influence
Industrial Customers	61
Sales Presentation	62
Negotiation	62
Important Points on Negotiations	66
Special Dealings Between Buyer and Seller	66
Reciprocity	66
Dealing with Customer's Customers	67
Customer Service	67
Summary	68
Questions for Discussion	69

5. Industrial Marketing Intelligence and Marketing Research 70

The Nature of Marketing Research In
Industrial Marketing Environment	70
Differences Between Consumer and
Industrial Marketing Research	71
Scope of Industrial Marketing Research	72

Marketing Research Process	74
Identifying the Problem (or Opportunity) and Defining Research Objectives	75
Develop the Research Design/Plan	76
Presenting the Research Findings/Report	86
Industrial Marketing Intelligence System	87
Industrial Marketing Intelligence System	88
Summary	90
Questions for Discussion	91
6. Industrial Market Segmentation, Target Marketing, and Positioning	92
Market Segmentation	92
Segmenting, Targeting And Positioning (STP) Framework	93
Procedure Followed for Market Segmentation	93
Benefits and Limitations of Market Segmentation	94
Identifying Bases (Variables) Used For Segmenting Industrial Markets	96
Macro-segmentation	97
Micro-segmentation	99
Target Marketing	100
Evaluating Market Segments	101
Selecting the Target Segments	104
Target-market Strategies	104
Concentrated Marketing	104
Differentiated Marketing	105
Undifferentiated Marketing	106
Criteria in Choosing Target-Market Strategy	107
Ways of Achieving Specialisation	108
Positioning	109
Procedure for Developing a Positioning Strategy	109
Summary	113
Questions for Discussion	114
7. Product Strategy and New Product Development	115
Definition of an Industrial Product	115
Changes in Product Strategy	116

Factors Demanding Change in Product Strategy	116
Industrial Product Life-cycle and Strategies	117
Other Shapes of the PLC for Industrial Products	118
International Product Life-Cycle	120
Application of Product Life-Cycle Theory to Marketing Strategies	120
Locating Industrial Products in their Life-Cycle	122
Developing Product Strategies for Existing Products	122
Steps Involved in Developing Product Strategies	123
New Product Development	126
Classification of New Products	126
Factors Responsible for Success and Failure of New Industrial Products	127
The New-Product Development Process	128
Innovation, Competitiveness, and Technology	133
Innovation and Competitiveness	133
The Impact of Technology	134
Breakthrough and Incremental Innovations	135
High-tech Marketing	136
Differentiating Characteristics of High-tech Marketing	137
High Market Uncertainty	138
Impact of Technology Adoption Life Cycle	140
Unique Nature of High-tech Marketing Strategy	142
Marketing of Industrial Services	143
Classification of Industrial (Business) Services	144
Unique Characteristics of Services and the Marketing Implications	144
Marketing Strategies for Industrial Service Firms	147
Summary	151
Questions for Discussion	152

8. Industrial Distribution Channels and Marketing Logistics

154

Distinctive Nature of Industrial Channels	154
Factors Affecting the Nature of Industrial Channels	155
Alternative Structures of Industrial Channel	155
Why Industrial Marketers use Intermediaries?	156
Why Industrial Customers Buy from Distributors?	158
Types of Industrial Middlemen/Intermediaries	158

Channel Design	160
Developing Channel Objectives	161
Analysing Channel Constraints	161
Analysing Channel Tasks	161
Identifying the Channel Alternatives	162
Evaluating the Channel Alternatives	164
Selection of Channel	165
Managing Channel Members	165
Selecting Intermediaries	166
Motivating Middlemen	166
Controlling Channel Conflicts	167
Vertical Marketing Systems	169
Evaluating Channel Members	169
Trends in Industrial Marketing Channels	170
Supply Chain Management	172
Logistics Management	173
Marketing Logistics/Physical Distribution	173
Tasks of Physical Distribution	174
Total Cost Approach	175
Integrated Approach to Total Distribution
Cost and Customer Service	177
Impact of Marketing Logistics On Intermediaries	178
Role of Marketing Logistics	178
Summary	178
Questions for Discussion	179

9. Managing the Personal Selling Function 181

The Role/Characteristics of B2B/Personal Selling	181
Major Roles of Personal Selling	182
New Approaches to Personal/B2B Selling	183
Intrapreneurial Philosophy	183
Systems Buying and Selling	184
What Makes a Successful Salesman?	184
Organisational Buying Behaviour and Personal Selling	185
The Selling Process	186
Sales Force Organisation and Management	187
Types of Sales Organisations	188
Management of Sales Force	192

Recruitment and Selection of Industrial Salespersons	192
Selection Criteria	193
Training Industrial Salespersons	194
Supervision and Motivation	196
Developing Sales Force	198
Evaluation and Control	200
Deployment of Sales Force	201
Setting Up Sales Territories	202
Determining Size of Sales Force	202
Allocating Sales Force to the Sales Territories and Customers	203
Sales Resource Opportunity Grid	203
ABC Analysis of Industrial Customers—An Example	204
Management of Major And National Accounts	205
Summary	207
Questions for Discussion	208

10. Industrial Communication: Advertising, Sales Promotion, Publicity, and Direct Marketing 209

Developing the Industrial Communication Programme	210
Determining the Communication Objectives	210
Identifying the Target Audience	211
Determining the Promotional Budget	211
Developing the Message Strategy	214
Selecting the Media	215
Evaluating the Promotion's Results	217
Integrating the Promotional Programme	218
The Role of Advertising in Industrial Marketing	218
Functions Performed By Industrial Advertising	219
What Makes an Industrial Advertisement Stand Out?	222
The Importance of Sales Promotion, Public Relations, Publicity and Direct Marketing in Industrial Marketing	223
Sales Promotion/Business Promotion	223
Role of Direct Marketing	226
Summary	227
Questions for Discussion	228

11. Industrial Pricing Strategies and Policies	229
Special Meaning of Price	229
Factors That Influence Pricing Decision	230
Pricing Objectives	230
Demand Analysis	232
Cost-Benefit Analysis	233
Cost Analysis	233
Break-Even Analysis	238
Competitive Analysis	239
Government Regulations	240
The Pricing Strategies	241
Competitive Bidding	241
Pricing New Products	244
Pricing Policies	245
Key Terms Associated with Pricing	245
Commercial Terms and Conditions in Industrial Markets	249
Terms of Payment (TOP)	249
Role of Leasing	252
Lease versus Purchase	252
Types of Leases	252
Pricing Strategy	253
Summary	253
Questions for Discussion	254
 12. Strategic Planning, Implementing, and Controlling in Industrial Marketing	 256
Characteristics of Market-oriented Organisations	256
Factors Affecting the Market Orientation	257
The Role of Marketing in Strategic Planning	258
Hierarchy of Strategies	258
Strategic Planning at Corporate Level	260
Corporate Mission Statement	260
Corporate Objectives and Goals	263
Defining Strategic Business Units (SBUs)	263
Allocation of Resources to SBUs—Portfolio Analysis	264
Developing Corporate Strategies	267

Strategic Planning Process
at Business Unit Level	270
Business Unit's Mission (or Business Mission)	271
Scanning of External Environment
(for Opportunities and Threat Analysis)	272
Analysing the Internal Environment
(for Assessment of Strengths and Weaknesses)	273
Developing SBU's Objectives and Goals	275
Formulating Strategies at Business Unit Level	276
Developing Industrial Marketing Plan	278
Implementing and
Controlling Marketing Plans	280
Implementation of Marketing Plans	280
Implementation Skills	280
Controlling Marketing Performance	281
Types of Marketing Controls	281
Summary	282
Questions for Discussion	283

13. Business-to-Business (Industrial)
Marketing through Electronic Commerce	285
What is E-commerce?	285
Important Parts of E-Commerce	286
Changing Business Environment	287
Size of E-Commerce Economy	288
Business-to-Business Forms of E-commerce	289
Inter-Organisational Systems	289
Types of Inter-organisational Systems	290
Scope and Characteristics of Inter-organisational Systems	294
Electronic Markets	295
Advertising	296
Customer Service and Support	297
Effective Alternative to Traditional Channels	297
Extending Reach to Buyers	298
Using the Internet	298
Features of the Internet that are
Important in E-commerce	298
Marketing on the World Wide Web (WWW)	299

Marketing Strategy for the Electronic Market Place	301
Segmenting and Targeting	301
Product Differentiation and Positioning	302
Marketing-mix Strategies	303
Outlook Into the Future	305
Summary	306
Questions for Discussion	307

14. International Industrial Marketing 308

The Nature of International Markets	308
Market Intelligence and Research	309
Choosing the Market	310
Culture and International Business	310
Legal Aspects of Doing International Business	311
Risks involved in doing Business Internationally	313
Political Risks	313
Commercial and Financial Risks	313
Entry Strategies for International Markets	314
Fairs and Trade Shows	314
Tie-up with a Larger Company	315
Tie-up with a Local Companies	315
Licensing and Franchising	315
Pricing and Payment Terms in International Trade	316
Pricing Terms	316
Payment Terms	317
Currency of Pricing	318
Packing and Shipping	320
Summary	320
Questions for Discussion	321

Case Studies

1. Metal Products India Limited	322
2. Star Engineering Co Ltd	325
3. Star Material Handling Co Ltd	327
4. Precision Steel Tubes Ltd	330
5. Sigma Telecom Company	333

Contents	xxiii
<hr/>
6. Plastic Technologies (India) Ltd	339
7. Alfa Networks	346
8. ROBO KNON	351
9. Shah and Company—New Training Package for Sales Personnel	355
10. Electrical Equipment Ltd	358
11. Saragam Aluminium Limited	362
12. Hindustan Engineering and Automotive Products Ltd	366
 Index	 368