

7. The string has a node at the center, so it will have two loops from one end to the other, as shown in Figure 15.13b on page 300 in the text. Each loop represents one half of a wavelength, so the string is exactly one wavelength long. This means the wavelength is the same as the length of the string or 1.5 m.