

4.5 DESIGN A PHOTO STORY

DIRECTIONS: Below is a series of photos and a story all related to one topic. The editor has assigned you to create a photo story using some or all of these photos that will run as an entire page in tomorrow's paper. Don't forget to pick a dominant image that will run at least twice as large as any other image on the page. Try to mix horizontal and vertical photos for contrast. Maintain consistent internal margins. And don't forget those captions — one for every photo.

Manteo

A look behind the scenes at this Outer Banks town

Manteo is perhaps best known for being the home of the first American-born English child. Or of Andy Griffith. Or of the "Lost Colony."

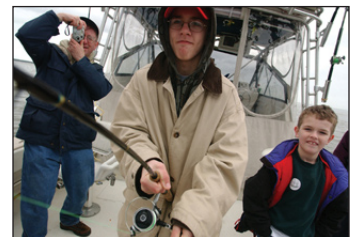

However, it's also the home to a couple thousand permanent residents who live in and work on the 8-mile long, 2-mile wide island.

Jeff Floyd, a resident of Nagshead, works out of Manteo taking tourists out fishing on the open waters of the Atlantic Ocean.

"I've been doing this for a little over a year now, and I love it. Fishing is just something that gets in your blood."

Every summer hundreds of actors spends their time in the summer-only production of "The Lost Colony," a play that debuted in 1938 and is now in its 70th production season. It has served as the training ground for more than 5,000 actors and technicians, including such famous personalities as Andy Griffith and Terrance Mann.

"The Lost Colony is a North Carolina tradition that generations have learned from and enjoyed," said North Carolina first lady Mary Easley. "I commend the Lost Colony for developing Educate North Carolina to give many students who may never visit Waterside Theatre another way to experience the history and the magic of our nation's longest running outdoor drama."

1899
Year town incorporated

1,052
people

515
households

86%
Caucasians

$29,803
Average household income

1.8
square miles