We also thank the following lecturers who offered valuable comments and suggestions via focus groups and meetings that have been an invaluable contribution to the design, content and pedagogy of our third edition: Dr Simon Hudson, University of Sydney; Professor David Patterson, University of Sydney; Dr Charlotte Taylor, University of Sydney; Ms Dawn Gleeson, University of Melbourne and Dr David Raftos, Macquarie University.

The editors acknowledge their friend and colleague the late Professor Bruce Knox for his role in the first edition. We also remember Professor Russell Baudinette, an internationally recognised and productive researcher, who ignited ideas with his infectious enthusiasm, until his death in early 2004. Many, including several of the authors of this book, will remain guided by his philosophy and influenced by his passion for comparative physiology. We thank Consultant Reviewer Mr Ed Myer, Queensland University of Technology, and the many colleagues who gave constructive feedback and provided new information and photographs. We are very grateful to the efforts of all of our authors who participated in the preparation of this book. They have maintained great enthusiasm for the idea of an 'Australian' text, many of them over three editions spanning the last 15 years.

We are most grateful to McGraw-Hill Australia for their support in bringing this project to fruition. We particularly wish to thank Director of Editorial Michael Tully, Developmental Editor Nicola Hartley and Senior Editor Katrina O'Brien for their support and encouragement. We also thank Leanne Peters for overseeing artwork, Tricia McCallum for an imaginative and striking design, copy editors Carolyn Pike and Nicole McKenzie, and Publishing Services Manager Jo Munnely and her staff. Not least, we acknowledge the support of our families for their encouragement and patience during the many hours of writing and editing.
