

Acknowledgments

Organisational Behaviour on the Pacific Rim symbolises the power of teamwork. More correctly, it symbolises the power of a virtual team with Tony Travaglione in New South Wales and South Australia; Steve McShane in Western Australia and Singapore; the editorial crew in Sydney, New South Wales; the copy editor and designer in Queensland; and the typesetter, proofreader and indexer in country New South Wales.

Superb virtual teams require equally superb team members and we were fortunate to have this in our favour. Sponsoring editor Ailsa Brackley du Bois led the way with unwavering support, along with the strong endorsement from general managers Brian Kibby and Yasminka Nemet. Developmental editor Jane Clayton mastered that unique combination of optimism and determination to ensure that we kept to our schedules in good spirits and compiled the cutting-edge video package that accompanies this text. Kim Ross, our senior editor/production co-ordinator, met the challenges of a tight production schedule. The keen copy-editing skills of Caroline Hunter made Organisational Behaviour on the Pacific Rim incredibly error-free. Paul McNally triumphed to deliver the many photos and Danielle Crofts superbly managed reviewer feedback and market research. We also extend a special thanks to Kate Barry who designed a memorable first edition; our typesetter, Kim Webber, who put all the pieces together; our proofreader, Tim Learner; and, our indexer, Glenda Browne. Thanks to you all. This has been an exceptional team effort!

REVIEWERS OF THE FIRST EDITION

More than two dozen lecturers from every region of Australia, as well as from New Zealand and South Africa, reviewed parts, or all, of Organisational Behaviour on the Pacific Rim. Their compliments were energising and their suggestions significantly improved this premiere edition. We extend our special thanks to:

Aletta Odendaal (Technikon South Africa)	Karl Pajo (Massey University)
Alick Kaye (University South Australia)	Lesley Treleaven (University of Western Sydney)
Allan Bull (Macquarie University)	Liz Creese (RMIT)
Brad Jackson (Victoria University of Wellington)	Lorraine Carey (University of Tasmania)
Brenda Scott-Ladd (Murdoch University)	Maree Boyle (University of Queensland)
Conrad Smidt (Rand Afrikaans University)	Michael Segon (RMIT)
David Brown (La Trobe University)	Michael Sheehan (Griffith University)
Deb Stewart (Victoria University)	Peter Jordan (Griffith University)
Gido Mapunda (University South Australia)	Peter Lok (University New South Wales)
Howard Harris (University of South Australia)	Richard Sisley (Auckland University of Technology),
Ian Brooks (University of Canterbury)	Rod Salzman (Northern Territory University)
John Gilbert (University of Waikato)	Robert Thompson (Queensland University of Technology)
Judith Chapman (University of Western Sydney)	Sally Townsend (Swinburne University)

We also thank approximately 80 university and college lecturers in the United States and Canada who reviewed the American and Canadian variations of this book within the past two years. Their suggestions also strengthened the quality of this book.

Organisational Behaviour on the Pacific Rim also gained immensely from the hard work of Lesley Treleaven (University of Western Sydney) who prepared the web links for the Online Learning Centre and we extend our thanks to the following people who contributed cases and exercises to this book:

Bernadette Cross (University of Newcastle)	Kate Hutchings (Queensland University of Technology)
Brenda Scott-Ladd (Murdoch University)	Linda Twiname (University of Waikato)
Gail Broady (University of Western Australia)	Michael Sheehan (Griffith University)
Hazel Bothma (University of Cape Town)	Natalie Ferres (University of Newcastle)
Jeffrey Bagraim (University of Cape Town)	Peter Lok (University of New South Wales)
Julia Connell (University of Newcastle)	Tracy Potgieter (Eastern Cape University)

REVIEWERS OF THE E-EDITION

In this e-edition, we also thank all those reviewers who generously contributed their time to providing invaluable feedback to this enhanced edition of Organisational Behaviour on the Pacific Rim:

Allan Bull (Macquarie University)	Julia Connell (University of Newcastle)
Apollo Nsubuga-Kyobe (La Trobe University)	Liz Kummerow (for constructive feedback on the ACME Bank of Australia case)
Cathryn Lees (University of Western Australia)	Luke Faulkner (University of South Australia)
Emma Bowyer (University of Technology Sydney)	Michael Gross (University of Wollongong)
Georgina Caillard (RMIT)	Sally Townsend (Swinburne University)
Glyndwr Jones (University of Waikato)	Suchi Mouly (University of Auckland)
Ian Brooks (University of Canterbury)	Tyrone Pitsis (University of Technology Sydney)

We wish also to thank those people who kindly contributed cases to this enhanced edition of Organisational Behaviour on the Pacific Rim:

Arif Hassan (International Islamic University, Malaysia)	Thivagar Velayutham (International Islamic University, Malaysia)
Christine D Ho (University of Adelaide)
Peter Waring (University of Newcastle)	Verena Marshall (Curtin University)

Along with the reviewers and editorial team, Steve extends his gratitude to students and colleagues at the University of Western Australia's Graduate School of Management. Working with this group of fine people is a rare opportunity that anyone in academia would treasure. Steve is also forever indebted to his wife Donna McClement and to their wonderful daughters, Bryton and Madison. Their love and support give special meaning to his life.

Tony would also like to thank his colleagues at the University of Newcastle and Charles Sturt University. The culture of these schools ensured that Tony had the constant encouragement and support of his colleagues to undertake this adventure. A special thanks also to his fantastic daughters Natalie, Michelle and Annalise.