Contents in Brief

Preface xv
How to Use This Text Well xix
Getting Started xx

PART ONE

The Backdrop of Teaching 1

1 Factors That Influence How We Teach 2
2 Teaching in a Changing Society 22
3 Teaching Diverse Students 57
4 Three Schools of Thought about Learning and Teaching 93
5 Getting to Know Your Students and Motivating Them to Learn 116

PART TWO

The Act of Teaching 165

6 Planning Instruction 166
7 Four Instructional Alternatives: Presentation, Discussion, Independent Study, and Individualized Instruction 203
8 Four More Instructional Alternatives: Cooperative Learning, Discovery Learning, Constructivism, and Direct Instruction 259
9 Evaluating Students' Learning 303

PART THREE

The Effective Teacher 345

10 Personal Attributes and Characteristics of Effective Teachers 347
11 Professional Skills and Abilities of Effective Teachers 367
12 Classroom Management Skills of Effective Teachers 399
13 Problem-Solving Skills of Effective Teachers 440
14 Reflective Skills of Effective Teachers 459

Practice Teaching Manual

UNIT 1
Microteaching: Practicing Critical Teaching Skills 474

UNIT 2
Reflective Teaching: Practicing Being a Thoughtful Practitioner 481

UNIT 3
Room 221: A Simulation: Solving Classroom Problems 513

Glossary 518
Credits 526
Name Index 527
Subject Index 531

Contents in Detail

Preface xv

How to Use This Text Well xix

Getting Started xx

PART ONE

The Backdrop of Teaching 1

CHAPTER 1

Factors That Influence How We Teach 2

Personal Characteristics 3
- How Gender Influences Our Teaching 3
- How Age and Experience Influence Our Teaching 5
- How Technological Know-How Affects Our Teaching 5
- How Personality Affects Our Teaching 6
- How Our Beliefs Affect Our Teaching 6
- How the Way We Prefer to Learn—Our Learning Style—Affects Our Teaching 8

Experience and Preparation in Education 8
- How the Way We Were Taught Affects Our Teaching 8
- How Our Knowledge of Subject Matter Affects Our Teaching 9
- How Our Teaching Preparation Influences Our Teaching 10

Context 11
- How Student Differences Affect Our Teaching 11
- How Class and Classroom Size Affect Our Teaching 12
- How Other Teachers and Supervisors Affect Our Teaching 14
- How Availability of Material and Equipment Affect Our Teaching 14
- How Available Time Affects Our Teaching 15
- How the Nature of Lesson Objectives Affects Our Teaching 15
- How National Imperatives Affect Our Teaching 15

What Factors May Be Affecting Specific Teacher Practices? 16

Some Final Thoughts 16

Chapter Summary 17

Key Terms 18

Issues and Problems for Discussion 18

Theory into Action: Activities for Practice and Your Portfolio 19

References 19

CHAPTER 2

Teaching in a Changing Society 22

America's Changing Population 23
- Minority Population Growth 23
- Minority Population Distribution 23
- Other Noteworthy Population Changes 23
- The Changing Pupil Population 24
- Challenges You May Face That Result from Population Changes and Other Factors 24

The Changing Family 24
- Family Trends 25
- Family, Community, and School Influences on Children and Schooling 26
- The Resultant Achievement Gap 30

The Changing Nature of Childhood and Youth 33
- Children Living in Poverty 33
- Children with Inadequate Supervision 37
- Abused and Neglected Children 38
- At-Risk Children 40
- Children with Incarcerated Parents 42
- Resilient Children 42

Hurried and Overscheduled Children 44
Disengaged Children 45
Alienated Children 46
Generation M Kids 46
Are Today's Children Less Teachable? 47
Using the "Whole Child Approach" to Help Kids Learn 48
The Changing School 49
Some Final Thoughts 51
Chapter Summary 51
Key Terms 52
Issues and Problems for Discussion 52
Theory into Action: Activities for Practice and Your Portfolio 53
References 54

CHAPTER 3

Teaching Diverse Students 57
Student Diversity 58
Socioeconomic Differences 59
Cultural Differences 59
Gender Differences 61
Sexual Preference Differences 67
Developmental Differences 68
Personality Differences 70
Learning Style Differences 72
Learning Aptitude Differences 76
Interest Differences 85
Implications for Teachers 85
Some Final Thoughts 87
Chapter Summary 87
Key Terms 88
Issues and Problems for Discussion 88
Theory into Action: Activities for Practice and Your Portfolio 89
References 90

CHAPTER 4

Three Schools of Thought about Learning and Teaching 93
The Cognitive School of Thought 94
Information Processing 95
Meaningful Learning 97
Cognitive Approaches to Teaching and Learning 98
The Humanistic School of Thought 102
Beliefs of the Humanistic School 102
Humanistic Approaches to Teaching and Learning 103
The Behavioral School of Thought 104
Contiguity 104
Classical Conditioning 104
Operant Conditioning 105
Observational Learning 105
Behavioral Approaches to Teaching 106
Is There a Single Best Approach to Student Learning? 108
Some Final Thoughts 110
Chapter Summary 111
Key Terms 112
Issues and Problems for Discussion 112
Theory into Action: Activities for Practice and Your Portfolio 113
References 114

CHAPTER 5

Getting to Know Your Students and Motivating Them to Learn 116
How You Can Get to Know Your Students 117
Using Existing Records 117
Cumulative Records 117
Unearthing New Information about Students 120
Observing Students 120
Interviewing Students 121
Using Questionnaires 122
Using Sociometry 122
Using Autobiography 124
Using Parents and Guardians as Sources 124
Using Cases 127
Evaluating and Using Information 127
Evaluating Information 127
Using Information Properly 130
Motivating Students to Learn 130
Some Final Thoughts 132
Chapter Summary 134
Key Terms 135

Issues and Problems for Discussion 135
Theory into Action: Activities for Practice and Your Portfolio 136
References 139
Appendix: Cumulative Record Cards for Five Diverse Students 140

PART TWO

The Act of Teaching 165

CHAPTER 6

Planning Instruction 166

Pros and Cons of Instructional Planning 167
Planning is Especially Beneficial for New Teachers 167
Deciding What to Teach 169
State Standards and How They Are Developed 169
What States Standards Look Like 172
The Power of State Standards 172
What Happens at the School District Level 172
The Formal and Taught Curricula 173
The Power of the Curriculum 174
Instructional Objectives 174
What Instructional Objectives Look Like 174
Instructional Objectives Differ in Two Ways 175
Some Objectives Are General, Others Are Specific 176
The Kinds of Objectives We Use Result in Three Different Kinds of Learning: Cognitive, Affective, Psychomotor 176
Another Way of Classifying Learning Outcomes 179
Writing Specific Objectives 179
The Value of Specific Objectives 181
When Are Objectives Good? 182
Preparing Instructional Plans of Varying Duration 182
The "Long and Short" of Planning 182
Preparing Long-Range Plans: Yearly and Semester Plans 183
Preparing Unit Plans 185
Preparing Lesson Plans 187
Evaluating Lesson Plans 191
The "Backward Design" Idea of Lesson and Unit Planning 192
Resources Useful When Planning 195
Collaborative, Cooperative, or Team Planning 195
Comparative Planning 196
Some Final Thoughts 196
Chapter Summary 197
Key Terms 198
Issues and Problems for Discussion 198
Theory into Action: Activities for Practice and Your Portfolio 199
References 201

CHAPTER 7

Four Instructional Alternatives: Presentation, Discussion, Independent Study, and Individualized Instruction 203

Presentations: Teaching as Telling and Showing 204
What Is a Presentation? 204
Purpose and Characteristics of Teacher Presentations 204
Good Presenters 206
Good Presentations 206
Computer Presentations: Pros and Cons 210
When Teacher Presentations Should Be Used 211
Limitations of Presentations 212
Summary on Presentation 213
Discussion: Learning through Informative Interaction 214
What Is a Discussion? 214
Purposes and Characteristics of Discussion 214
Good Discussion Leaders 217
Good Discussions 217
When Discussions Should Be Used 219
Research on Discussion 220
Limitations of Discussions 220
Summary on Discussion 221
Independent Study: Teaching as Giving and Guiding Seat Work and Homework Assignments 222
What Is Independent Study? 222
Purpose and Characteristics of Independent Study 222

Good Independent Study Leaders 224
Good Independent Study 225
When Independent Study Should Be Used 227
Limitations of Independent Study 228
Making Good Homework Assignments 228
Summary on Independent Study 230
Individualized or Differentiated Instruction: Tailoring Teaching 230
What Is Individualized Instruction? 230
Purpose and Characteristics of Individualized Instruction 231
Types of Individualized Instruction 233
Good Users of Individualized Instruction 238
Good Individualized Education Programs 238
When Individualized Instruction Should Be Used 239
Limitations of Individualized Instruction 239
Summary on Individualized Instruction 240
Matching Instructional Alternatives to Learners 241
Overview of 31 Instructional Alternatives 242
Using Technology in Teaching 245
Selecting Quality Software and Websites 247
Utilizing Digital Content 247
Get Better Prepared for the Digital Age 248
Some Final Thoughts 249
Chapter Summary 249
Key Terms 251
Issues and Problems for Discussion 251
Theory into Action: Activities for Practice and Your Portfolio 252
References 256

CHAPTER 8

Four More Instructional Alternatives: Cooperative Learning, Discovery Learning, Constructivism, and Direct Instruction 259

Cooperative Learning: Teaching Learners to Like and Care for One Another 260
What Is Cooperative Learning? 260
Purpose and Characteristics of Cooperative Learning 260
Some Variations on the Theme of Cooperative Learning 261
Good Leaders of Cooperative Learning 263
Good Cooperative Learning 264
When Cooperative Learning Should Be Used 266
Limitations of Cooperative Learning 268
Summary on Cooperative Learning 268
Discovery Learning: Figuring Things Out for Yourself 269
What Is Discovery Learning? 269
Purposes and Characteristics of Discovery Learning 270
Good Facilitators of Discovery Learning 271
Good Discovery Learning 272
Facilitating Discovery Learning Online 276
When Discovery Learning Should Be Used 277
Limitations of Discovery Learning 277
Summary on Discovery Learning 277
Constructivist Teaching and Learning: Problem Solving under Teacher Guidance 278
What Is Constructivism? 278
Purposes and Characteristics of Constructivism 278
Good Constructivist Teaching and Learning 279
Good Facilitators of Constructivist Learning 280
When Constructivism Should Be Used 281
Limitations of Constructivism 281
Summary on Constructivism 281
Direct Instruction: Teaching in the Most Efficient and Effective Way 282
What Is Direct Instruction? 282
Purpose and Characteristics of Direct Instruction 282
Examples of Direct Instruction Programs 283
Good Direct Instructors 287
Good Direct Instruction 287
When Direct Instruction Should Be Used 289
Limitations of Direct Instruction 291
Summary on Direct Instruction 292
Is There a Single Best Instructional Alternative? 293
Some Final Thoughts 294
Chapter Summary 294
Key Terms 296
Issues and Problems for Discussion 297
Theory into Action: Activities for Practice and Your Portfolio 297
References 300

CHAPTER 9

Evaluating Students' Learning 303

Defining Classroom Assessment, Measurement, and Evaluation 304
Factors Influencing Assessment Quality 305
Sources of Information 305
Accuracy of Information 306
Types of Assessment: Formative versus Summative 308
Standardized Testing and Standard Scores 309
The Standardized Testing Process 311
Interpreting Standardized Test Results 312
Types of Scores from Standardized Tests 313
Summary of Standardized Testing 315
Teacher-Made Assessments 316
Pencil-and-Paper Tests 316
Observational, Performance, and Authentic Assessment 326
Grading and Assigning Grades 331
What Should You Consider When Assigning a Grade? 332
What Standard Should You Use? 333
How Will Assessment Information Be Synthesized? 336
Technology in Assessment and Grading 338
Some Final Thoughts 338
Chapter Summary 338
Key Terms 341
Issues and Problems for Discussion 341
Theory into Action: Activities for Practice and Your Portfolio 342
References 343

PART THREE

The Effective Teacher 345

CHAPTER 10

Personal Attributes and Characteristics of Effective Teachers 347

Research on Teaching 348
Defining Effective Teaching 348
The Search for Effective Teachers 350
Effective Teachers: Personal Attributes and Characteristics 350
Motivating Personality 351
Enthusiasm 351
Warmth and Humor 352
Credibility 354
Orientation Toward Success 354
High Expectations for Success 354
Encouraging and Supportive 357
Professional Demeanor 358
Businesslike 358
Goal-Oriented 359
Serious 359
Deliberate 360
Organized 360
Adaptable/Flexible 360
Knowledgeable 362
Some Final Thoughts 362
Chapter Summary 363
Key Terms 364
Issues and Problems for Discussion 365
Theory into Action: Activities for Practice and Your Portfolio 365
References 365

CHAPTER 11

Professional Skills and Abilities of Effective Teachers 367

Focusing and Engaging Students' Attention 368
Establishing Set 368
Using Variety 370
Using Instructional Time Efficiently 373
Optimizing Time 373
Conducting Interactive Instruction 377
Using Questions 377
Providing Clear Instruction 386
Monitoring Students' Progress 389
Providing Feedback and Reinforcement 390
Some Final Thoughts 392
Chapter Summary 393
Key Terms 395
Issues and Problems for Discussion 395
Theory into Action: Activities for Practice and Your Portfolio 396
References 397

CHAPTER 12

Classroom Management Skills of Effective Teachers 399

What Is Classroom Management? 400
Preventing Management Problems 401
- Establishing the Physical and Psychological Environments 401
- Establishing Classroom Rules and Routines 408
- Starting the School Year 414

Monitoring Students' Behavior 415
- Holding Students Accountable 415
- Rewarding and Reinforcing Students 418

Responding to Misbehavior 421
- Why Students Misbehave 421
- Deciding How to React to Misbehavior 423
- Using Intervention in the Classroom 425

Reestablishing the Learning Environment 429
Some Final Thoughts 429
Chapter Summary 430
Key Terms 431
Issues and Problems for Discussion 432
Theory into Action: Activities for Practice and Your Portfolio 433
References 436

CHAPTER 13

Problem-Solving Skills of Effective Teachers 440

What Is a Problem? 441
Sources of Problems 441
What Kinds of Classroom-Related Problems Do Teachers Face? 442
- Affiliation 443
- Control 444
- Parent Relationships and Home Conditions 447
- Student Success 450
- Time 451

Preventing and Resolving Classroom Problems 453
- Preventing Classroom Problems 453
- Resolving Classroom Problems 453
- Developing a Problem-Solving Attitude 456

Some Final Thoughts 456
Chapter Summary 456
Key Terms 457
Issues and Problems for Discussion 457
Theory into Action: Activities for Practice and Your Portfolio 457
References 458

CHAPTER 14

Reflective Skills of Effective Teachers 459

Thanksgiving Reconsidered 460
Characteristics of Reflective Practitioners 461
Benefits of Reflecting on Teaching 462
Developing Reflective Thinking 465
- The Reflective Process 465
- Becoming a Reflective Teacher 465

Some Final Thoughts 468
Chapter Summary 469
Key Terms 470
Issues and Problems for Discussion 470
Theory into Action: Activities for Practice and Your Portfolio 470
References 471

Practice Teaching Manual 473

UNIT 1

Microteaching: Practicing Critical Teaching Skills 474

Overview of Microteaching 474
Microteaching Lesson One: Conveying Positive Personal Attributes 475
Microteaching Lesson Two: Establishing Set 476
Microteaching Lesson Three: Using Questions 477
Microteaching Lesson Four: Providing Clear Instruction 478
Additional Practice 480

UNIT 2

Reflective Teaching: Practicing Being a Thoughtful Practitioner 481

What Is Reflective Teaching? 481
Using Reflective Teaching 481
Roles during Reflective Teaching 481
Reflective Teaching Lessons 483
Learner Satisfaction Form 512

UNIT 3

Room 221: A Simulation: Solving Classroom Problems 513

Meet the Principal 513
Fourteen Classroom Incidents 514

Glossary 518
Credits 526
Name Index 527
Subject Index 531